

SINGERS OF DISTINCTION 2013 – TONIGHT'S ARTISTS

Sunday July 21st at The Exchange Bar

Nile McGregor

Nile McGregor is a singer and songwriter from Leicester who has been actively performing at shows and festivals for over two years. This year Nile has performed at the Riverside Festival. After his performance at the OBS Unplugged on 5th January, Arts in Leicester magazine wrote: An well known singer, he had attracted a fair number of followers for tonight's appearance, picking up his electric guitar for the first few songs, until he switched across to his acoustic instrument. Performing mainly his own songs, Nile delivered an impactful stage presence that echoed his personality, showed off his distinctive voice and fired up his set with a good dose of passion and feeling. With no shortage of colour and energy in his set, his strong vocals illustrated his range of techniques. He surprised the room by singing a cover from Leicester's By the Rivers band, giving us his own take on their current single release Take Control. Impressive.

Nile has played alongside many artists with the most known probably being The James Arthur Band and Lucy Spraggan. He writes what can only be described as 'Eclectic' songs and with such a large amount of inspirations in most genres.

Theo Miller

Theo Miller performed at the OBS Unplugged finale show on 9th February. He appeared at many festivals and gigs including Next Wave at Phoenix. Reviewing this performance, Arts in Leicester commented: At one point Theo left the stage and sang to the audience, fully unplugged. A difficult feat that few had been brave enough to attempt, but Theo conquered it magnificently. The hushed room was able to hear the full colour and timbre of his voice as he delivered flawless vocals without the aid of stage monitors. It was not long before some singers in the crowd were joining in with the choruses and the end of his set was greeted with enthusiastic acclaim. A set that was, in a word, impressive.

Becky Edwards

Singer/songwriter Becky Edwards appeared at the Western Park festival earlier this year. She is a frequent performer at local gigs. Earlier this year, Becky was one of the support singers at Siobhan Mazzie's album launch and she was one of the singers on the acoustic stage at the Riverside Festival.
